Re: Case No. 2:11-cv-1301-JCC; Alyson Herfert v. Crayola LLC, in the United States District Court, Western District of Washington at Seattle.

Dear Clerk of the Court:

My name, address, telephone number and email address are as follows:

Amber Pederson
5010 Meandering Lane, Unit C
Corpus Christi TX 78413
T: 361-446-8869
Email: bolenbarker@yahoo.com

I am a class member because I acquired 2011 Crayola Washable Colored Bubbles products as defined in the class notice. Specifically, my mother-in-law purchased the Crayola Washable Colored Bubbles for me to give to my son for Easter. She purchased the "Washable Colored Bubbles" three-pack [SKU number 03-7503]. See my affidavit attached as Exh. A along with my supporting proof of my claim.

I object to this settlement for the following reasons:

Part of the claimed relief under this settlement has already occurred based on the defendant pursuing its own self-interest in changing its product in 2012. Whether or not this Court approves this settlement will play no part in whether this product cycle will occur: it has already occurred. That is illusory relief and the fact that class counsel is trying to claim credit under this settlement is indicative of the weakness of this settlement.

Compensation for property damage or cleaning costs is also completely illusory. There is no guaranteed minimum payout, there are no clear rules that will be followed, and Crayola itself has too much power in the claims process. If any value is to be attributed to the property damage or cleaning cost compensation, the Court should wait until all claims data is in before assessing any value. Alternatively, the value of this compensation should be regarded as zero. Class members who have property damage or cleaning cost claims already had the right to petition Crayola for cleaning, replacement, etc... This settlement, far from providing any guaranteed relief, simply limits the avenues for recovery for class members who do not opt out.

With respect to the purchase costs, the funds available is far to modest and the ceiling limits class members' damages too severely.

This settlement is illusory and its proponents cannot sustain their burden of proof on fairness, reasonableness and adequacy.

Attorneys' fees are excessive under either a lodestar or percentage of recovery analysis.

I have not been an objector in any other case and I am pro se. I will not attend the hearing, so I ask you to please consider this letter and ask that the Court consider my objection at the fairness hearing.

Sincerely,

AFFIDAVIT OF AMBER PEDERSON

STATE OF TEXAS §
COUNTY OF NUECES §

BEFORE ME, the undersigned notary, on this day, personally appeared AMBER PEDERSON, a person whose identity is known to me. After I administered an oath to her, upon her oath, she said:

"My name is Amber Pederson. I am over the age of eighteen (18) years. I have never been convicted of a felony. I am qualified and competent to make this affidavit. The facts stated herein are within my personal knowledge.

I acquired the 2011 Crayola Washable Colored Bubbles product as defined in the class notice. Specifically, my mother-in-law purchased the Crayola Washable Colored Bubbles for me to give to my son for Easter. She purchased the "Washable Colored Bubbles" three-pack [SKU number 03-7503]. The bubbles stained my white truck with blue spots, and I had to take the truck to the car wash which cost me money. Also, my son's walker was ruined because the bubbles stained the seat and back as well as the white tray. I had to replace his walker because I couldn't get the stains out of the fabric. The bubbles stained my concrete driveway with blue spots and stained the bottom of my garage door. I had to bleach my tub after my son's bath because of the stains left from the bubbles. My son's clothes were stained and his hands and face were stained from the bubbles. I bathed him several times to get the color off his hands and face. Attached to this affidavit are photos taken at Easter of my son with the bubbles and also a photo of my son in his walker before the bubbles stained and ruined it."

Further Affiant Sayeth Naught.

DATED this the 30th day of March 2012.

Amber Pederson, Affiant

SWORN TO AND SUBSCRIBED before me on this the 30th day of March 2012.

The Disney Baby Music & Lights Walker is perfect for your active little one. The sturdy wheels work well on both hardwood floors and carpets, so your baby can take adventures through different rooms in your home, while grip strips reduce movement on uneven surfaces. The oversize snack/play tray features your child's favorite Disney characters, while the two activity trays swing open easily for snack time or to accommodate other toys. The machine-washable, adjustable seat allows the walker to grow with your baby, and it folds down easily for storage and travel.
